[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Louisiana Legislature

[illegible] ORLEANS, Feb. 28.—On reassembling of the [illegible] this evening the attorney of the governor [illegible] to the court the following orders: [illegible] the House of Representatives has preferred to the Senate that it has impeached William [illegible] Governor of the State of Louisiana [illegible] crimes and misdemeanors and [illegible] The said house has acted [illegible] said [illegible] contrary to law in this it is ordered by [illegible] sitting as a court of impeachment that [illegible] impeachment presented by the House of Representatives be dismissed by reason of the failure of [illegible] house to prosecute the same and that this order [illegible] the same force and effect as a judgment of a[illegible]

[illegible] was called for on the adoption of this proposition and order. While the vote was being taken [illegible] committee of five, appointed by the Speaker [illegible] and presented an authorization from the [illegible] to act as managers. The point was raised [illegible] after an excited protest from Mr [illegible] that the Speaker had not the right to appoint managers after the adjournment of the house. [illegible] order of acquittal was finally adopted by the [following] vote: Yeas 25, nays 9.

The Moulton-Beecher Demurrer Case.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—After the argument by Gen [illegible] and Mr Abbot, the court took the papers [and reser]ved its decision.

Carnival at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Feb. 29.—The city is entirely given [over] to the King of Misrule. Business is entirely suspended, and all the principal streets present a dense mass of surging humanity prominent amid [the] great crowds of grotesque maskers representing every conceivable character. The weather [is ple]asant and [illegible], and the success of the carnival is assured. The steamers Anna Bana and [illegible] which arrived last night from Cincinnati, [were] crowded with pleasure seekers, and every [illegible] is crowded. The pageant of the Mucks [illegible] of Motley will move at 2:30, and at 8 [to]night the magnificent spectacular pageant of the [illegible] will move. There are more visitors now than at any former carnival.

Col. Forney Delayed.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 29.—Col. J. W. Forney did [not] arrive in the city last night; but will come this [after]noon. Parties of welcome, including the Centennial Commissioners, Mayor Stokley, members of the press and many citizens, went down the river [this] morning to meet him.

Money and Stocks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—Gold closed at [illegible]; money [illegible]; governments, dull and strong; stocks, active [illegible] and weak; Western Union, 70¼; Quicksilver, 19¼; Pacific Mail, 29⅛; Mariposa, 7¾; Wells Fargo, 87; New York Central, 115⅜; Erie, 18; Panama, 131½; Union Pacific, 61¼, do bonds, [illegible]; Central Pacific bonds, 108⅜.

Destructive Storm.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 29.—Private advices to the Journal indicate that the storm, which was so destructive at Princeton, visited Henderson and Christian counties, Kentucky, doing an immense amount of damage.

No Reduction of Rates.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—Mr. Jewett, president of the [Erie] R. R. has issued an order discharging any agent, or employe of the company taking freight [for] the west at any reduction of tariff; quashing all [illegible] contracts that have been made for transportation at reduced rates, and ordering that no contracts in the future shall be made at less than the full charges.

Colonization of Arizona.

BOSTON, Feb. 29.—A party of 45 young men left [this] city last night for Arizona, being the advance [guar]d of a colony forming here to settle Chiquito [illegible]

Methodist Preachers' Meeting.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—The Methodist preachers' [meeting] yesterday, was devoted to Sunday schools. The subject was introduced by an essay from Rev. [illegible] Lippincott of New Jersey. The speaker denounced the means taken at present to support the Sunday schools by fairs, bazaars, picnics and comic lectures as thoroughly demoralizing. The statistics [for] 1875 show there are 1,4[illegible],168 scholars enrolled, and 2[illegible] teachers. Of this number [illegible] were converted to God. He proposed [illegible] assume control of the Sunday schools, the same as they do other church [matters]. After some discussion a committee was appointed to [illegible] the general conference as to further legislation on the subject.

Suborner of Perjury Arrested.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—Augustine R. McDonald, [illegible] claim agent, was arrested in Brooklyn today on a requisition from the Governor of Arkansas. [illegible] with subornation of perjury, [illegible] which, it is alleged, the government was [illegible] out of $11,000 on a claim for cotton said [to h]ave been burned in the late war.

Gold Shipped to Cuba.

[illegible] to Havana to day and this [illegible] part of the two million dollar purchase [illegible] and the rest is expected to follow. [illegible] dollars were sent in Spanish [illegible] but in case this cannot be procured [illegible] gold coin will be substituted.

Repair of the Direct Cable.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29.—The steamship Faraday [illegible] at the fracture of the direct cable yesterday [an]d buoyed both ends close together [an]d is now awaiting favorable weather to splice.

Meeting of Anti-Contractionists.

[illegible] was held last night under the auspices [of the] Legal Tender Club of the second assembly [district] of this city. The president of the Painters' [illegible] was chairman, and the president of the [illegible] Society was one of the speakers. The resolutions adopted demanded that the policy of contraction of the currency and forced resumption [illegible] be abandoned, leaving the resumption of legal tenders to par with gold to be [brou]ght about by promoting the industries of the [country], and not by destroying them. Also demanding that all national bank currency be promptly and permanently retired and that legal [tenders] be issued in its place by and upon the faith of the general government.

[illegible] Republican State Convention.

HARTFORD, Feb. 29.—The Republican State convention met at Allyn Hall to-day and organized by [the] choice of A. Roberts, of New London, temporary [chair]man, and Stephen W. Kellogg, of Waterbury, [perm]anent president. Mr. Tibbetts expressed the [hope] that the convention would nominate a ticket [that] would command the united support of the [party] and the respect of its opponents, and especially of the independent voters of the country. The [plat]form should be outspoken for hard money and [free] public schools. Mr. Kellogg made a brief [speech]. He advocated a platform pronouncing for [hard] money, honest government and public schools. He complimented President Grant for interposing a veto to prevent the country from suffering the evils of currency inflation, and commended [Secr]etary Bristow for his efforts to punish fraud [illegible] Jewell for advocacy of reforms in his [illegible]

The State ticket placed in nomination is as follows: Governor, Henry C. Robinson; lieutenant [governor], Frederick J. Kingsbury; secretary, [illegible] Walker.

[illegible] in Louisiana Regarding the Impeachment of Gov. Kellogg.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 29.—The following paragraph [in] the leading editorial in the Picayune fairly [expr]esses the prevailing sentiment regarding the impeachment proceedings against Gov. Kellogg: "[The] impeachment farce is over. It was a brief and [illegible] piece of low comedy in two acts and as [man]y scenes. The scene of the first act was laid in [the] lower, that of the second in the upper house of [the] general assembly."

WASHINGTON CITY.

Testimony Concerning the Emma Mine

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The committee on foreign [affairs] to-day heard the testimony of James E. [illegible] of Racine, Wis., concerning the Emma mine [spec]ulation. Witness originally owned a third in[terest] in the Monitor lode which afterwards became the Emma mine, and the same interest which [was] purchased by Baxter & Park. Suits arose and [the] witness employed as counsel ex-Senator Stewart of Nevada, and Gen. H. Dyer. Witness [illegible] visited Salt Lake when they met Senator [Mort]on, to whom Stewart related [illegible] of [obt]aining a trial in the courts of that Territory. [illegible] said it was all wrong, when Stewart replied [that] if Morton would assist he should have $20,000. [An] effort was made to have Judge McKean removed, but without success. They objected to McKean because he was engaged in trying his own [illegible] case in which he was interested, being president of and a large stockholder in the company engaged in litigation with another similar [company]. McKean is also interested to the extent of $100,000, in the Tunnel Mining Company, which [was] organized with a capital [illegible]. The other Justices were joint partners in [illegible] interests adverse to him. The marshal of the [Terr]itory was also interested in Emma mine stock. [A p]arty in San Francisco had purchased from [the] estate of Elias Braine for nominal sum [illegible] about a quarter or a half mile from the Monitor and organized the Emma Mining company with a capital of $10,000,000. Stewart advised [him] to consolidate his interest with the company which would have shares [illegible] witness and Judges [illegible] anxious to dispose of his interest to Park and [for a] consideration was willing to withdraw [illegible] Park was not to be trusted and would swear [to] anything to carry his point. Witness in response [to] Stewart said: "I have heard Park say he [illegible] about you and that you would not [illegible] jurors and witnesses at your personal [illegible]" Witness asked Stewart to see Park and [get a] settlement of his business. It was agreed [illegible] two millions had been taken out of the mine [to] July 18, 1871, and, allowing half a million for [illegible] witness was willing to settle on that basis, [he] having surrendered his interest in the Monitor. Stewart and Park left for New York and on the [illegible] of August Stewart [illegible] a good bargain with Park as he [illegible] the world [illegible] Witness [illegible] Stewart [illegible] the half million promised. Park discharged all [illegible] Stewart and Park went to England. Stewart telegraphed Nov [illegible] witness [illegible] hundred [illegible] compelled to [illegible] the Emma mine [illegible] great mines of the world [illegible] of $[illegible] had already been taken [illegible] from it. Witness found Schenck and Park occupying a room in Edwards' hotel as an office. Albert Grant, of London, framed the prospectus of the Emma Mine Co. and £100,000 were paid to him as promoter of the scheme. Twenty five thousand pounds were paid to the banking house of Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. for the use of their name. J. H. [illegible] the banker was promised £10,000 sterling for the use of his name, but the money was not paid, and besides other sums expended, General Schenck was presented with five hundred shares of stock at twenty pounds per share. Albert Lewis & Sons of Liverpool were to have received £5,000 but did not, but that Professor Silliman received £5,000 or £10,000 for making his favorable report. Witness further gave his experience with Stewart, who made various excuses for not obtaining for him the sum he promised, and witness thought he made a proposition to close the transaction for $25,000. Gen. Schenck wrote a letter to Park on the 1st of December 1871 saying he was going to resign the directorship, giving as a reason that he did not want to be criticised by his political enemies. Park said he would have a better letter than that, so when Schenck wrote the letter of the 6th of Dec., in which he resigned, Park said this was a better endorsement of the Emma mine than Schenck's name as a Director. When the scandal against Schenck first became known in England Park said he had fixed things with the General. He requested the General to give his note for the stock. Schenck said if his note was not good security he would mortgage his house in Washington. Owing to the famous telegram from Williams, Silliman and Hazzy of new and very large discoveries in the Emma mine the stock went up and shareholders thought the Government was backing the speculation, as Maj. Gen. Schenck's name appeared in the prospectus as minister from the United States.

The testimony of Lyon will be continued to morrow.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The committee on foreign affairs this morning resumed the investigation of the Emma mine speculation. Senator Morton appeared and was sworn at his own request. He said he had seen in the report of the testimony an allusion to himself and he therefore wished to state that some five or six years ago, in 1871, on his way home after the adjournment of Congress, Senator Stewart came to him and spoke about a case then pending in the courts of Utah. Stewart said perhaps the parties might wish to employ him as counsel and brought in a gentleman who he presumed to be Mr. Lyon, the witness now present. Stewart informed him that if he could engage in the case he should receive a large fee if successful. Senator Morton thought it was for desired professional service and of such a character as he could accept. Stewart wanted to meet Morton at Salt Lake, and Morton informed him he would meet him there if Stewart would notify him as to the time. Afterward from what Stewart said he wanted Morton to assist in having Judge McKean removed rather than render professional service. Morton saw in a Salt Lake paper the statement that he and others united in the request for the removal of Judge McKean, but Morton said he had nothing to do with that subject.

Lyon, in response to a question by Morton, said he did not meet Morton at Salt Lake and never had any connection with the matter under consideration.

In the Senate.

Sargent, of California, presented the petition of of a committee of the National Woman Suffrage Association asking that the women of Utah be protected in exercising the right of the elective franchise; referred to the committee on territories.

Booth, of California, presented the joint resolutions of the California legislature in favor of such action as will procure for the people of California the cheapest rates for the transmission of telegraphic messages; referred to the committee on commerce. Also the joint resolutions of the same body asking an appropriation for the removal of obstructions in Feather, Sacramento, Mokelumne and San Juan rivers, and Petaluma and Sonoma creeks, and the improvement of the channel of said streams; referred to the committee on commerce. He also presented the petition of M. D. & C. Clarke, and J. B. Bartlett, citizens of Colusa, Cal., asking to be granted a title to five sections of unsurveyed public land near the head waters of Sulphur creek, known as Empire Springs in that State, whereon to establish an industrial college; referred to the committee on public lands. He also introduced a bill by request for the relief of savings banks. It relates to the internal revenue taxation of certain reserve funds held principally by California institutions of this character. The same bill was introduced in the last Congress, and the questions at issue are now pending before the Treasury Department.

Death of Senator Jones' Private Secretary.

Col. J. W. Grassy, private secretary of Senator Jones of Nevada, died in this city to day of pneumonia after a brief illness.

Court of Claims.

A motion was made in the court of claims to enter judgment on the supreme court mandamus case of Marshall O. Roberts and other trustees of the Sloo estate. The motion will, of course, be complied with, but it remains for the lower court formally to complete and fix the precise amount due under the supreme court decision of the government's liability. The amount according to the statutory requirement which the supreme court decides must govern is a little more than a million of dollars. The claim is for extra ocean mail service performed 20 to 25 years ago between New York and California.

Ex-Congressman Houghton has arrived to attend to business before the supreme court and says he will be here from four to five weeks.

Texas Border Committee.

The Times Washington special says the labors of the Texas border committee are about ended and they will report in favor of three regiments of cavalry being stationed on the border. The report is delayed by the desire of the committee to have their proceedings printed to lay before the House with the report.

El Paso Investigation.

CHICAGO, Feb. 29.—The Times Washington special says unless Lyman Elmore unbosoms himself before the El Paso committee on Wednesday the investigation of that piece of jobbery is virtually ended. So far as Fremont and other witnesses who have been examined are concerned nothing at all has been done. Corwin and Parsons, two bright stars in working the bill through Congress, could not be had, leaving Elmore as the last hope of the committee. The committee is really in earnest in the investigation and it is said several members, who are friends of the Texas Pacific, but are Scott's friends, now say that as soon as the investigation is over the papers and the evidence will be given the committee showing that W. S. Morton of New York has instituted the investigation to injure Scott and that Morton tried to blackmail him out of $[illegible] in the case.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The chairman laid before the Senate a message from the President inclosing a communication from the Secretary of the Interior in regard to the deficiency in the supplies at Red Cloud Indian agency and recommending favorable action on the estimate submitted by the Secretary to supply such deficiency. Ordered to be printed and recorded.

The chairman from the committee on finance reported adversely on the Senate bill to amend section [illegible] of the Revised Statutes of the United States permitting national banks to organize with a capital of only $[illegible] in towns irrespective of population. Ingalls, who introduced the bill, said he had received numerous letters from national banks in cities as well as country towns asking the passage of this bill, and if the chairman of the committee on finance had no objection he would like to have the bill placed on the calendar with the adverse report. So ordered.

[illegible] from the committee on finance reported favorably on the Senate bill extending the time for the redemption of lands held by the United States under the several acts levying direct taxes. Passed.

Morton rose to a personal explanation [illegible] the published testimony of [illegible] Lyon before the House committee on foreign affairs yesterday with regard to the Emma mine. He said the report [of] the testimony would lead to the impression that he had [illegible] in the case referred to [illegible] to have Judge McKean removed [illegible] was not a syllable of truth. He was on the way [illegible] from the Senate [illegible] Senator Stewart came to him in the [illegible] the law suit and [illegible] to have Morton retained as assistant counsel [illegible] Morton [illegible]

The [illegible] introduced [illegible] agricultural [illegible] the year [illegible] the Senate and House [illegible] passed a few days ago [illegible]

Morrill of Vermont [illegible] Philadelphia [illegible] exhibit the same at the Centennial [illegible] Philadelphia after making [illegible] for its safe return, agreed to.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of the bill making appropriations for the support of the military academy for the fiscal year ending June 30 1877.

The pending question being the amendment of the committee on appropriations to strike out the clause appropriating [illegible] approved March [illegible] and inserting in lieu [illegible] the following [illegible] of military academy [illegible] agreed to. The next amendment proposed was to increase the appropriation [illegible] for the superintendent of the academy from $1,000 to $1,500.

Withers opposed the increase and said at a proper time he would move to strike out the whole clause [illegible] contingent expenses. He thought this money was [illegible] principally in entertainments.

West favored the increase and said the superintendent of the academy had to incur expenses in entertaining and during our centennial exhibition he should be allowed to entertain on a scale commensurate with the dignity of his position. Next [illegible] appropriation for contingent expenses should not be cut off.

The amendment was agreed to—yeas [illegible], nays 11. Other amendments of the committee striking out the appropriation of $[illegible] for printing catalogues for library and appropriating $5,000 for continuing the system of sewerage from the barracks and quarters were agreed to.

The bill having been considered in committee of the whole, was reported to the Senate and the question being on concurring in the amendments made in committee.

Whyte moved to strike out the clause appropriating $1,000 for contingencies for the superintendent of the academy; rejected—19 to 21.

On motion of Wright the Senate took up the bill declaring the true intent and meaning of the Union Pacific Railroad acts approved June 1 1866, July 2, 1866 and July 3 1866. Wright said he did not expect this bill to be acted upon to day. The question had been discussed last session and he hoped the Senate would dispose of the bill with as little delay as possible.

Sargent asked if the effect of the bill was not to negative several propositions which the government had always maintained heretofore?

Wright replied the bill was in entire accord with all the departments of government and was approved by all. Pending the discussion the Senate went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

House.

Speaker Kerr laid before the House a message from the President urging the necessity for an immediate appropriation to supply the deficiency at the Red Cloud Indian Agency.

Randall, chairman of the committee on appropriations, said that the committee had considered the subject and had been unable to procure certain information which has been deemed essential. The committee therefore reported a resolution which had been adopted by the House requesting the President to detail an army officer to go to Red Cloud agency and report on the cases of deficiency. Unless the report of that officer were unreasonably delayed he thought the committee might wait for it. There had been gross frauds connected with that agency; there also had been disregard of law; but if the President deemed it a matter of sufficient importance to send a communication to Congress on the subject the committee on appropriations would proceed at once to consider the matter.

Banning inquired whether the army officers had been sent out?

Randall—The President so states.

The message was referred to the committee on appropriations.

Kelley, by unanimous consent, introduced a bill empowering the Secretary of the Interior to pay the Smithsonian Institute and librarian of Congress to report such measures as will most effectively restore the writings in the original manuscript of the Declaration of Independence with the signatures appended thereto, now in the patent office.

Caylor, from the committee on public lands, reported a bill to amend the act to encourage the growth of timber on the Western prairies, also a bill explanatory of the timber culture act; recommitted.

Burling from the committee on naval affairs reported a bill for the annual estimates of expenditure for the navy department; recommitted.

The House then took up the bill, which was up a few days ago limiting the cost of the custom house building at Memphis, Tenn., to $400,000.

Bedu (?) offered a motion to recommit, which after discussion he withdrew, and the bill passed—yeas, 174, nays 87.

The House went into committee of the whole, Blackburn in the chair, on the bill amending the laws granting pensions to soldiers of the war of 1812, the question being on the motion to strike out the section restoring to the pension list the names of persons stricken therefrom on account of sympathy with the rebellion.

Neal advocated the motion to strike out, and Bland opposed it.

Jenks moved to amend the section by providing that no arrears of pensions shall be paid for any portion of the time during the existence of the rebellion to any one, whether he participated in the rebellion or held any office under the Southern Confederacy. He made an argument in support of his amendment. He thought it fair to say from twelve to twenty million dollars was in involved in the bill.

Cook insisted that, by the decision of the Supreme Court, the whole question of the right of these pensioners to be restored to the pension rolls had been settled, and that after the President's proclamation at the close of the rebellion all legal rights were restored.

Kasson said the estimate of the commissioner of pensions, based on the bill as originally reported, was that it would require an annual payment of $2,140,000 and that, by the peculiar phraseology of the bill all who had served in Mexico or in the Indian wars would be entitled to pensions.

Hurlburt—There was an impression on the public mind that this carefully worded and skillfully managed bill was but the entering wedge to other claims of vast amount. Whenever this bill was so altered as to be confined simply to the restoration of those pensioners to the rolls, it would have his support, but not till then.

Caswell remarked that he regarded the bill as a departure from every sound principle of justice.

Hooker advocated the passage of the bill and said that he had hoped that in this centennial period the American people would manifest a desire to throw the mantle of oblivion over the late contest.

Vance regarded the opposition to the bill as essentially unjust to the soldiers—to the plain men of the South, who had taken up arms against the government. The war had not commenced among them, but in the House and Senate, and that many members of both Houses had declared at that time that "tis sweet to die for one's country," and had quoted the line "Go where glory waits thee." But they had taken care themselves not to go or to die worth a cent. (Laughter.) He asserted as an humble soldier of the South that if the country were engaged in a foreign war, no men would more promptly reply to a call than the men in gray.

The chairman (Harris) let the hammer suddenly fall as an indication that Vance's time had expired.

Vance—You want me to quit now, do you? (Laughter.)

The Chairman kept up the hammering with the gavel.

Vance—Can you not give me another minute?

The Chairman (severely)—The gentleman from North Carolina will be seated.

Townsend, of New York, favored the recommittal of the bill. The discussion was further continued by Hoskins, Williams, Henderson, Atkins, Reagan and Hill.

Hill expressed his regret that the gentlemen on the Republican side of the House seemed determined to go back on the record of last session, when a similar bill to the pending one passed the House. He had canvassed the State of Georgia against secession and he had always found those old [illegible] soldiers standing by his side and opposed to secession. It was a curious incident in history that at the very time these Southern soldiers were fighting the enemy at New Orleans there was a convention of New England men at Hartford proclaiming the very doctrine of secession on which the South had subsequently seceded.

Kasson—Did any State ever undertake to enforce it?

Hill (without noticing Kasson)—And I don't know that anybody engaged in that convention was ever struck from the pension rolls.

Atkins—What has secession to do with this bill? Secession is dead. Why should it be brought up here and be discussed in this hall? Why should the gentleman from Georgia fling it in our faces on this floor? As a Southern man I protest against the introduction of such questions.

Hoar replied to Hill's remarks about the Hartford Convention and said the convention was composed of men as pure, able and patriotic as ever lived, and when they declared that a State legislature was the judge of the validity of an act of Congress, they never contemplated any right to resist it by force. In the midst of a good deal of excitement and various interruptions Hoar went on to say he was tired of such lectures coming from the gentleman (Hill), whom the other side of the House seemed to treat as its organ. In this connection he referred to Hill's record on the amnesty bill, and Hill again undertook to explain the resolution offered in the Confederate Congress in regard to the punishment of [illegible] and soldiers of the United States that might be captured on Confederate soil.

Hoar continued: The gentleman on that side of the house [illegible] the same [illegible] language which it is hardly decorous to [illegible] and spoke of a distinguished member of this House [illegible] that [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] the American Congress.

[illegible] replied [illegible] Hoar and said he was sitting [illegible] in his seat when that gentleman's speech [illegible] When he [illegible] charged against him [illegible] provocation and [illegible] the gentleman from Maine (Blaine) or the gentleman from Massachusetts who came forward as defender of the Hartford convention and of the blue light Federalists who hung out their signal to the British. In conclusion he said the best thing to be done with the bill in the interest of retrenchment and economy was to recommit it.

The committee rose and the House, on motion of Holman, ordered the bill to be recommitted.

[illegible] offered a resolution declaring it be the opinion of this House that the Secretary of the Treasury should at once commence the issue of the silver coin accumulated in the Treasury as a substitute for the fractional currency; referred.

THE BIG RACE

[From the S. F. Chronicle, Feb. [illegible]]

BEFORE THE RACE

On the ground smiths are busily plating the horses and small, natty looking men in jockey costume are making their way to the stand in order to see that their weights are right before the signal is given to prepare. They have a care-worn look, which is not strange when, in order to get within the prescribed weights, a rigid system of roasting has to be undergone: sweats, induced by heavy clothing and thick wrappings, accompanied with violent and prolonged exercises, and the still more weakening sudorific of burning alcohol under a bottomless chair while the victim is covered with thick horse rugs and blankets. It takes a good deal of the determination of the blood horse to undergo this ordeal and refrain from eating only the smallest quantities of food which is necessary, and many who consider themselves game men would never undertake it but once. See that colored individual with the tartan jacket! Two weeks ago he was twenty pounds heavier than he is now and the ash-colored visage was as black and as shiny as polished ebony.

HE JOKES AND LAUGHS

with his comrades, but he is anxiously looking for the finish of the race which will permit him the latitude he has not enjoyed for some time. It is his first appearance in the pigskin for many years, and is a powerful exhibition of the faithfulness of his race. The only thing that would have induced him to "waste" was his affection for his old employer who desired his services. All of the others were more nearly at the desired weight, and while they showed the results of abstemiousness in their appearance, there was not the same evidence of atrophy as the descendant of Ham exhibited. There was Barbee, not unknown to fame in the old country in all the neatness of costume which characterizes the English jockey, and though unfortunate in his "mounts" in the big races of California, is a rider of recognized merit. Lakeland, a pupil of the erratic Tom Patterson, a man who

COULD TRAIN A RACEHORSE

Successfully, no matter how careless he was in his imbibations, has acquired all the benefits of his teacher's skill without any of the drawbacks of his bad example; a careful and astute rider, who has hardly a superior. Hennessy, with a seat which gives him a Centaur appearance as though he were a part of the animal he bestrode, and who not only rides with judgment, but manages his animal with a skill which is pleasant to witness. And then there was the light weight of the party, the little Tom Sayers, a son of the whilom Champion of England, who promises to inherit some of the qualities which gave his father such a celebrity as the best man of his weight who ever "shied his castor" inside of the roped arena. He has the pluck and coolness of his progenitor, and practice will undoubtedly give him a front rank in the more humane calling he has adopted.

THE ONLY CALIFORNIA JOCKEY

Was George Howson, and he is deservedly a favorite with the owners of horses and those who back them. When the horses were summoned to appear much anxiety was exhibited by those of the assembly to note what their condition was, or rather so much of their order as could be told from an observation of their outward look. Rutherford was the first one to take his preliminary canters, and as he was a large favorite in the pools, his supporters were anxious to have some token which would bear them up in their judgment.

THE SUPPORTING BOOTS

Were rather ominous, but he galloped along easily, and the sigh of apprehension which the boots awakened gave way to a smile of approval his easy action evoked. Foster, the second choice of the betters, looked in admirable condition, and as he had been fortunate in his location, having the more sandy Sacramento track to exercise on, that, with the acknowledged skill of his trainer, gave his backers an assurance he would do as much as they expected of him. Chance seemed also in fine order, and justified the expectations of his friends as far as his looks went. Nevertheless he labored in his work, and the close scrutinizers were unanimous that it would be something of an anomaly if he could go the four miles.

HOCKHOCKING

Looked blooming, his coat glistening like the feather's on a pigeon's neck, and he glided along smoothly, notwithstanding one ankle was enlarged. He has a resolute look and exhibits the gameness for which he is famed in every part of his form.

Katie Pease had also the supporting, tell-tale bandage on both fore legs, and she stubbed along very differently from her showing previous to the race in which she secured the first award.

Golden Gate was as smooth in her limbs as an unbroken colt, but she looked as though the "grand preparation" had told on her speedy form, and she had rather a jaded and overworked look.

Revenue Jr., looked and acted well but did not show improvement enough of the form in which he ran in the Wise Plate to satisfy his backers.

THE FIRST HEAT

The preliminaries were arranged by the selection of Hon. A. J. Bryant, president of the Jockey Club, Nathan Coombs of Napa, and J. B. Haggin, the capitalist, as judges. Phil McGovern and John Martin, the secretary of the Jockey Club, were sent up to the distance stand to act as distance judges, and E. J. Weeks, C. F. Reed, Chas. Hosmer, F. G. Malone and Captain George Johnson were appointed timers. The management of the affair had advertised with a great deal of prominence the warning that the horses would be called on the track promptly at half past one o'clock, would start precisely at two, and that if any horse did not respond to the call within fifteen minutes the others started without him. In conformity with this notice the trainers had their horses ready promptly at the time appointed, but the management delayed to call them out on the track for a long time without any apparent good reason therefor. At length getting tired of holding the animals idly in the midst of the crowd which surrounded them, they sent them out on the track one after another, and they were led around in blankets by grooms for some time before the judges made the long delayed call summoning them to the track.

AN HOUR BEHIND TIME

The judges called up the riders to be weighed. The shriveled little knights of the pigskin, after their avoirdupois was seen to be at the prescribed standard, were called up into the judges' stand where Mr Bryant gave them a little lecture in regard to their conduct in the race. The little whipsters smiled knowingly and were dismissed with this injunction, after which they mounted their steeds. Foster was ridden by W. Lakeland, Rutherford by Geo. Barbee, who rode True Blue in the four mile race of two years ago and Joe Daniels in that of a year ago; Hockhocking by W. Johnson, an antiquated little colored jockey in a checked shirt; Golden Gate by a son of Tom Sayers, the English prize fighter; Katie Pease by Pat Hennessy, who piloted her to victory in the four mile race last year; Revenue Jr. by a colored boy of the orthodox [illegible] name of McKinney, and Chance by George Howson. While the jockeys were giving their steeds a canter to warm them for the struggle the people mentioned employed themselves in vain attempts to arrive at a sort of acquaintance with the horses.

THE BETTING

The scenes and incidents of the quarter stretch, or more properly speaking the reserved space in front of the club house, were perhaps the most varied and interesting of California's Derby day. Here were congregated at an early hour the aristocrats and the plebeians of the turf, all full to overflowing of horse talk, and speculating on the probabilities of the day. And they were a curious looking lot, dressed in all manner of garbs, some with felt and some with plug hats and others with hair sticking like grass through the crown of something resembling no hat at all. It was about 10 o'clock when they began to gather and from that time till Foster pushed his straining nose under the wire they rushed and surged about like the wild, restless waves of the sea. They were in doubt. There had been rumors as thereal ways are of the race being located entirely in the pool box, but as "Lucky" Baldwin swore by the new Market-street theater that his horse Rutherford "was put in the race to win," there was a general feeling, owing to this honesty on the part of "Lucky," and the position Rutherford had held in the pools the night before, that the chestnut horse was bound to get the first money. This was the general impression at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and as the crowd increased and every available foot of standing room within the space fenced off was taken up it did not alter a particle. The pool selling did not commence early enough to suit the restless crowd gathered in the stretch. They paced up and down with their hands in their pockets.

ONE OF THE OLD STAGERS

Who had been evidently knocking about the Sacramento training track, and who had thereby gained a point or two on the mysterious horse Foster, did not join in the universal belief that Rutherford would win, and dryly remarked to a friend, as he was going down into his trowsers to see how much coin he had on hand, that "Lucky Baldwin is going to get a stripe this time that will do him good." Did this old fellow know all the time that Foster was going to win? The result would make it appear so, even had not the Chronicle reporter seen this old codger pass up $1,200 in gold coin in exchange for the pool checks on the "Oregon horse," as Foster was denominated by the sharps. But notwithstanding this talk, "Lucky Baldwin" stalked serenely amid the throng confident that Rutherford would win, and not even condescending to listen to the admonition that Katie Pease would crowd the chestnut pretty hard, and that Golden Gate, if she only showed staying abilities, had the speed to win the race. It was evident, however, that the real struggle was between Rutherford, Foster and Katie Pease, many predictions being that all the others would be shut out on the first heat. Shortly before 1 o'clock the pool sellers arrived, and having arranged their tin boxes and packages of tickets, business commenced at once, with a huge crowd about the stand. Barnes, the Sacramento celebrity, started

THE FIRST POOL

At $100, and the first choice was, after some spirited bidding, knocked down to him at $160. The first six pools brought the following figures:

Rutherford	160	400	725	1000	500	1200
Foster	65	165	360	500	250	520
Katie Pease	55	90	145	215	140	290
Golden Gate	27½	70	155	235	100	140
Field	20	52½	45	150	90	110

The bidding kept on in about this order.

DRAWING FOR POSITION

In drawing lots for positions the horses gained place as follows: Katie Pease had the inside position, Rutherford second, Foster third, Hockhocking fourth, Chance fifth, Revenue Jr. sixth, and Golden Gate the outside. At a quarter to 3 o'clock they were called up and placed in this order for the start. The first attempt to get away evenly was a failure, and the horses were called back by the repeated ringing of the big bell on the judges' stand. On the second attempt six of them jumped under the wire in a cluster, and the bell was tapped once, the appointed signal for the start. A moment afterwards the judges saw Chance coolly standing in the track, with his tail towards them, just as the others left him when they bounded under the wire which marked the starting point. The bell was set in motion to sound the recall. This confused the wily little jockeys. They had the signal to go, and then the bell was clattering a recall. Some of them were for keeping on, as they were in the lead, and those behind felt like going back. At length they all yielded to the persuasive ding-dong of the brazen messenger in the stand, and cantered back to know what the judges meant by such

EQUIVOCAL CONDUCT

Anyhow. Thereupon there was more talk not altogether complimentary to the management, and several old seedlings, with the odor of the stable strong upon them, knowingly remarked that the riders should have kept on, and that if one of them had cantered over the course after getting the word to go he could have claimed the money and enforced its payment, as there was no turf law allowing a recall after the word to go had been given. This little shrewd display of the technicalities of race course law was cut short by the horses coming up again for the word. This time they got the word on

A VERY FAIR START,

Katie Pease having a slight advantage of it. As they bounded around the depression in the first turn of the track they were for a moment obscured from view from the reporters' stand, the elevation in the side of that part of the track being occupied by vehicles whose occupants climbed upon the tops and seats. As the horses emerged into view again it was seen that they were being held in by their riders, making the pace a slow one, and that the horses counted as best in general estimation were especially held back in reserve for the latter part of the struggle. Chance was in the lead with Hockhocking a length behind and Golden Gate on his hips, the others being strung along with less than a length between each of them, and being in this order: Revenue, Pease, Foster and Rutherford. Along the back stretch they continued strung out pretty much in this order, the exception being that Golden Gate and Hockhocking passed Chance, who fell back to third position, the leading horse reaching the half mile pole in just one minute. On the turn Golden Gate still retained the lead slightly, but coming down the home stretch Chance again brushed up and took the lead, coming in at the end of the first mile (time 2.02) a length ahead. In the meantime the rider of Foster had given his horse rein and the animal rapidly shot by his competitors, being side by side with Hockhocking, who had held second place. The others were strung out within the space of thirty yards behind these two in this order: Golden Gate, Revenue, Rutherford and Pease.

AROUND THE TURN

The pace was improved, Chance still holding first place. At the quarter Hockhocking had relinquished second place to Foster. Rutherford was here given head, and he and Foster began their struggle for the lead in earnest. Rutherford forged rapidly ahead passing one after another of his competitors until he reached first position. The half mile was made in 0.56½ and this gait was kept at this to the end of the mile, which was made in 1.53. Rutherford holding first place with Foster close upon him, Chance third, Hockhocking fourth, Pease fifth and Revenue bringing up the rear. Around the turn and up the back stretch on the third mile they clattered, Rutherford having increased his lead to two lengths, the others maintaining their relative positions. But here Chance, who held third position, showed signs of distress and fell quickly to the rear. From this to the end of the heat the pace was increased steadily, the struggle being a desperate one. Katie Pease also making a brush for a leading position. She overhauled Hockhocking, but could not catch the others. Rutherford maintained his lead of two lengths to the end of the mile, which was made in 1.52, Foster second. Around the turn they bounded for the final struggle of the last mile, the pace becoming still warmer. Down toward the half Rutherford maintained his lead and Pease succumbed to the pace, resigning that place to Hockhocking, who was about six lengths behind. Around the far turn Foster

BEGAN TO CLOSE THE GAP

Between him and Rutherford and as they swung into the homestretch the struggle became one of intense interest. Inch by inch the gallant steed gained on the leader. Whip and spur were plied at every bound by the riders. Under their impetus the noble animals bounded forward straining every muscle and passing the distance stand neck and neck. The excitement, which had now become too intense for suppression, burst forth into tumults of applause, while the gallants steeds bounded forward. The pace of Foster, which had enabled him almost imperceptibly to gain inch by inch upon his competitor was just sufficient to gain the victory. Had the course been a dozen bounds shorter it would have been impossible to name the winner. As it was the nose of Foster passed under the wire slightly in advance of that of the competing steed and by those immediately in line with the wire the verdict was "won by a short neck." Hockhocking was fifty yards in the rear of the two at the outcome, while Golden Gate was several lengths behind him, Revenue being fifth, Katie Pease sixth, both distanced and Chance doubly so. Time of last mile 1.50¼. Time of heat, 7.38. There was considerable delay in announcing the result, during which the excitement rose to fever heat, very few, on account of the confusion arising from the circulation of the false programmes, being able to tell what horses came in ahead. The judges themselves were equally at fault from this cause. A majority of them were of the opinion that the winning horse was one of those subsequently declared distanced (Hockhocking,) and to settle the question called up several of the riders and asked which horse he rode. They finally announced that Foster had won the heat, Rutherford second, and, to the amazement of every one, declared all

THE OTHERS DISTANCED

The latter part of the decision created great dissatisfaction. Those who were in the vicinity of the distance-stand with unanimity testify that Hockhocking and Golden Gate were both inside when the flag fell and that Hockhocking saved his distance by six or eight lengths. The decision declaring him shut out was protested against, and an effort was made to get the judge to hear evidence for its reconsideration, but they decided to be guided solely by the report of the distance judges. One of those who took part in the proceedings there subsequently admitted privately that he did not see the horses, or at least did not see all of them. The decision was received with many expressions of dissatisfaction, it being the general opinion among those in position to judge that Hockhocking was not justly treated. It was openly intimated that the decision had been made to save the third and fourth money to the Jockey Club by distancing all but the first two horses, and the fact that officers of the Club who had a direct interest in the saving thereby effected were appointed distance judges was pointed out as giving color to the suspicion.

BETWEEN THE HEATS.

After the heats the horses were quickly blanketed and consigned to the grooms. They were subjected to a free use of the scrapers and were thoroughly washed off and rubbed down. The gates were opened and the eager crowd thronged in upon the track and clustered about the panting flyers, which during the intermission were the chief objects of interest. Foster and Rutherford looked extremely well, and beyond a certain passive demeanor, seemed scarcely the worse for their four-mile brush. Hockhocking appeared jaded, but active. Revenue, Jr., was evidently the worse for his work, but stepped off briskly as his groom led him up and down before the grand stand. Golden Gate seemed decidedly blown, and dragged about with drooping head and panting sides. The grooms were besieged by inquisitive spectators, each of whom propounded the same question, "What horse is that?" For a time every querist was answered affably, but after the grooms had answered the same question about 500 times, their stock of patience became exhausted and the inquisitive ones then discovered how curt and profane an hostler can be when he is out of temper.

THE SECOND HEAT.

While the horses were being rested between heats Lucky Baldwin, the owner of Rutherford, after an anxious survey of his own steed, sauntered up the track and remarked with a gleam of satisfaction that Foster appeared slightly lame. This fact was noticed, and on it many founded a hope that Rutherford would yet win the race. After the lapse of the time allowed for resting, the horses were called up for the second heat. They started for the word, and, under a misapprehension, continued on around the track, neither jockey feeling certain of the position of affairs, and neither willing to be the first to turn back. As they bounded down the home stretch in a way that showed they meant business, the crowed was perplexed, not knowing whether the race was really in progress or not, but the jockeys were finally induced to rein up and return to the stand. They then

STARTED VERY FAIRLY,

On the first attempt, running at a moderate pace. During the first mile Foster took the lead on the first turn and throughout the mile maintained it, the two running nearly all of the mile nose and tail, and passing the stand in this position. Time, 2.03. The second mile was a repetition of this, with the exception that the pace was mended, the mile being made in 1.53. Foster maintained the lead throughout, at no time being more than a length and a half ahead, and most of the time not more than half a length. He passed under the wire at the end of the second mile a neck and shoulder ahead. The third mile was a repetition of the second, the time being 1.54, and Foster still maintaining the lead. It was noticeable that Foster maintained his advantage without special effort, and at the seventh half mile it was to be seen that Barbee was driving Rutherford for all the speed that was in him. Around the far turn and down the homestretch he used every effort to get his horse in the van,

PLYING WHIP AND SPUR

Freely, and giving the peculiar rolling lift of the English jockey on the bridle to urge on his jaded steed, but every art and endeavor was vain. Foster had speed and strength and reserve, and as soon as Rutherford's head reached his saddle he was called upon by his rider and glided away from his competitor, winning the heat by five lengths, making the last mile in 2.03 and the heat in 7.53, a very pretty heat, albeit somewhat slow.

TALK AFTER THE RACE.

The absorbing topic at all the horse headquarters last evening appeared to be the action of the judges in distancing Hockhocking and Golden Gate. The opinion was unanimous that the first mentioned horse was at least 30 yards inside of the prescribed limits, and very few gainsaid the statement that Golden Gate was also handsomely within where the red flag should have been dropped. It was also argued that the appointment of distance judges from amongst the men who were directly interested, and to whom it was dollars in their pockets to have those horses shut out, was contrary to all custom, and was good grounds for the belief that their actions were governed by these mercenary calculations. From the talk it seemed to be the general impression that the distance judge either lost sight of the horses entirely or determined to dispose of the third and fourth moneys in a manner that would absolve the club from the liability of paying them. It was also the general opinion that had Hockhocking stayed in the race the winner would have been forced to a much higher rate of speed to have got this heat. That, of course, is only surmise, but as he looked better than either Foster or Rutherford, and appeared to be much less distressed, the argument has logical grounds for its base. Prominent horsemen who were at the distance stand assert that Golden Gate and Hockhocking were certainly not distanced, and in that connection hint that as all were distanced except Foster and Rutherford, the third and fourth money, amounting to $9,000, would revert to the Association. The significance of this latter remark cannot be overlooked.

Between the heats Thad Stevens was brought out and under a gaily attired jockey took a brush around the track. Down the home stretch the veteran racer made his heels twinkle and when he shot by under the string a hearty cheer went up for plucky old Thad. The jockey remarked as he led the horse back to the stables: "I thought I would bring the hoss out just to show em that old Thad ain't dead yet."

PEDIGREE AND RECORD OF THE WINNER RUTHERFORD—ETC.

The winner of the largest moiety of the $30,000 purse is a golden chestnut horse, relieved with white markings. He is above the medium size and is a horse of fine form and great substance. His pedigree is as fine as could be conceived. The Lexington has been a capital cross on Yorkshire mares, as was instanced by the running of Vauxhall, a brother to Foster, General Duke, Larkin, and the wonderful family of which Bay Leaf was the dam. But behind this Lexington-Yorkshire cross in the case of Foster and which is a reserve of as much potency as the Prussians were to Wellington at Waterloo, is the Muley strain and that out of a sister to the noted Dick Andrews. In fact it would be difficult to take the stud books of both hemispheres and compile a richer pedigree than that of the horse which took the place of the hero of of 7.25¼. His granddam was the mother of thirteen colts, and amongst them was Verifier, Voucher, Vandyke. Captain Minor regarded Verifier as the superior of Boston, and the others were not only good race-horses, but successful progenitors.

FOSTER'S RECORD.

We present some of the performances of Foster to show what sort of a horse he was in his younger days, and although he may have lost some of the speed which was one of his characteristics as a three and four year old, the exhibit of yesterday proved he had enough left for a race of heats of four miles, with a certainty that he will "run from eend to eend" without flagging. As a three-year-old he won the Lombard Stakes at Jerome Park, beating Hamburg and Finesse. He ran a good second to Kingfisher in the Belmont, the 1⅝ miles being run in 2.59½. He was third in the Dinner Party Stakes at Baltimore, which was won by Preakness, Ecliptic second. This was the largest stake which has been run in some years, there being thirty nominations at $1,000 each, $500 forfeit, and was worth some $10,000 to the winner.

IN THE SOUTH.

In 1871, when Foster was a four-year-old, he won eight out of twelve of his engagements, and walked over for one, only losing three times during the year. At Mobile he won mile heats in 1.46½, 1.51½. At New Orleans he beat Defender and three others, two miles in 3.36. He won 2¼ miles in 4.37½. At Nashville he won two mile heats in 3.43½, 3.40½, and walked over for the three-mile race. Here he met his first defeat of the season, Nelly Gray beating him in 3:38. At Memphis he won the three-in-five and two-in-three, there being only a second of difference in the fastest and slowest of the five heats. At Lexington, Kentucky, he ran second to Morgan Scout in the very fast time of 3.09½ of 1¾ miles, and at Crab Orchard, Kentucky, he won in 1.46, 1.46½, 1.47. The fall of 1871 he was beaten by Monarchist at New Orleans, heats of two miles, but he beat the stable companion of that noted horse a few days after, in race of the same distance, which has proven him a tried four-miler. Time, 7:53, 8:05.

The character of this performance will be better understood when, on the same day, as good a mare as Madame Dudley, with an allowance of weight, was 2.20 in running 1¼ miles, the track being heavy.

RUTHERFORD.

The second in the race, if he was defeated, is a horse of character, and his want of condition is all that enrolled him in the list of unfortunates. His color is chestnut, both hind feet and off fore foot being white. Rather paler tint than Foster, yet very handsome. When in the sunlight it has a golden hue, and darker in the stable. Rare, indeed, it is to see the same color in a woman's hair, and beautiful as it is rare. Rutherford is the smallest of the four horses which lately came from the East. About 15¼ hands high, we should judge, and of rather a more delicate formation, a wiry, tendinous fellow, looking as though he would never tire when in condition. Lighter in the body, lighter in the limbs, yet his whole shape is so admirably proportioned, he looks smaller and more "lady-like" than he really is. His head is an expressive one, the brain forcing the skull out between the eyes, which are prominent and clear, and his nose a trifle on the Roman cut. His neck is deep at the shoulders, tapering to the throat-latch, with considerable arch to the chest. He is very deep through the shoulder in proportion to his size, which makes his waist look thin. His haunches and stifle are first rate, and the hard dry muscles look like wire cordage as they run from the upper thigh to the gaskin. The bones and tendons are of medium size, or, perhaps, a trifle below the usual standard, and his legs when he came here were as clean as the day he was foaled. There is a sharpness about the limbs of Rutherford which gives the impression that hard tracks would never swell them, but the best metal will succumb to a severe strain.

Two men, who recently started from King's Prairie, Marion county, to the Quartzville mines on the Santiam, did not proceed far on their way when they encountered deep snow. They became bewildered, and wandered about for three days in the mountains, and one of them became snow blind, and it was with difficulty that his comrade could get him along. They finally came to Elk creek, and followed it down to the road, thence on to Quartzville, one of them with his feet badly frozen.

Cannot Agree on a Financial System.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The conference of the Democratic caucus committee last night developed the fact of the impossibility of arriving at a unanimous agreement on the financial question. Eight of the thirteen members favor a proposition for an annual three per cent coin reserve by the national banks and the Secretary of the Treasury and for the repeal of so much of the specie resumption act as fixed the time for that purpose to be the 1st of January 1879. The other five members of the committee present a single proposition for the repeal of the clause in question. This divides the committee and two reports will be submitted to the caucus.

WEDNESDAY MORNING MARCH 1 18[illegible]

THE DEMOCRATIC IDEA OF LIBERTY ILLUSTRATED IN CALIFORNIA.

The reactionary tendencies of the Democratic party are manifested in California in the repeal by the House of Representatives of the compulsory education law. It has not been claimed by the friends of the law that it was in all respects perfect. It was for California an experiment. It has not been as great a success as similar laws have been in older and denser communities, but it has not been a failure and the friends of education, of intelligence, of civilization have hoped with great confidence to be able as its defects were made apparent by practice to improve and perfect the system till it should be all that any system of popular education under public supervision can be. But the Democrats seem to have no sympathy with that work. Instead of building up they propose to pull down, and to that end have already passed through one branch of the legislature a bill undoing all that has been done. The arguments by which the repeal was urged were characteristic. It was not claimed, as is claimed by some intelligent people, that compulsory education is impracticable in these new countries, but the repeal was put by its advocates on the ground that compulsory education is an unwarranted infringement of personal liberty. It was the old Democratic communistic argument of the right of every man to do as he pleases so long as he is not caught stealing his neighbor's horse or kicking in the doors of his neighbor's house. The idea that the government may rightfully suppress ignorance as a means of suppressing crime, seems to find no lodgment in the Democratic mind. It has cause to be regarded as an indisputable principle of sound political philosophy that ignorance and illiteracy are parents of vice and crime, and that public economy, not less than public order and tranquility, is consulted by fostering universal education. But the Democratic idea of individual liberty, does not admit of the application of this principle in the organization of society. The disorganization and disorder that pertain to barbarous peoples appears to be the ideal of liberty, toward which the controlling Democratic mind gravitates.

Why can not the intelligent and liberal minded of the Democratic party exercise some control in the organization and prevent these retrogressive demonstrations? There are such, not a few, in the party. The reason they can not control is that they are not, in fact, Democrats. They maintain their relationship to the party, but their counsels are not in accord with its policy, which is to keep, at all events, its hold upon the ignorant and vicious. Its managers, when it comes to choosing between letting go this hold on the one hand, and, on the other, keeping it by pandering to the lower instincts of the ignorant, never hesitate. The society of the dark ages, with the security of a constant party support from a large class, is more to them than civilization with the uncertain allegiance to party, which is the inevitable result of intelligence in the masses.

THREE PARTIES WHO WILL NOT SUPPORT BLAINE.

We gravely fear there is little chance that Mr. Blaine, in case of his nomination for the Presidency, will receive the support of the Salem Mercury, of the Albany Democrat or of Mr. Jefferson Davis. By a coincidence not wonderful these three parties all denounce Mr. Blaine in set terms, and they all agree in supporting the Confederate idea of government against the national idea, of which last Mr Blaine is an able and leading exponent. All these have condemned with great bitterness, and in language strikingly similar, Blaine's course on the amnesty question. All these scout and utterly repudiate the idea that we are a nation, or anything but a league of States. To this last-named doctrine the Confederacy over which Mr. Davis had the honor to preside was pledged, and they still uphold it. True, the Confederacy met with misfortunes, but the accidents of history can never overturn an eternal principle. And therefore the Mercury, the Democrat and Mr. Jefferson Davis cry aloud against the wicked Blaine, who seems to be stepping to the front as leader of a wicked party. It is, however, due to truth to say that the notes of condemnation are very unequal, the utterances of the two organs being but poor imitations and feeble echoes of the objurgatory rhetoric of Mr Davis.

Mr Schenck in explaining his connection with the Emma mine directorate stated that he had purchased five hundred shares and had given his note, secured by a mortgage in payment of the purchase money for them. One would naturally have supposed that the acquisition of the shares and the giving of the note took place at the same time, but it now appears that the shares were received by Mr Schenck some time before he gave his note for the price of them, and that the latter was not given at all until after his connection with the Emma mine company had occasioned a great deal of talk and scandal. It will take a great deal of reasoning to convince the people of the United States that such transactions are legitimate and untainted with wrong.

Scribner's Monthly always presents an interesting table of contents. The March number now before us is really superb. Its illustrated articles are rich and varied in matter and manner. Among the chief attractions of this number is an illustrated description of Trinity College, Hartford, the old buildings and those in course of erection. Dr Edward Eggleston contributes an article on the kindergarten method of instruction. [illegible] Virginia [illegible] Verne's Mysterious Island is continued and Edward Everett Hale furnishes another installment of his [illegible] Nolan's Friends. It is needless to say [illegible] editorial work is well done.

Don Carlos has surrendered to the French authorities and the Carlist contest is over. The young King Alfonso is about to return to Madrid where a grand reception is being prepared for him. The ex-Queen Isabella will soon go to Spain to reside in her son's palace where she was once a queen herself.

It is intimated that the committee appointed to investigate the El Paso job will probably make a water haul. Up to the present time the witnesses examined have revealed nothing which will throw any light upon the manner in which that iniquitous measure was carried through. Mr Elmore remains to be examined, and as it is known or believed that he can tell all about it if he will, it is to be hoped his testimony will be valuable to the committee.

The Texas border committee has said to have agreed to recommend that three regiments of cavalry be stationed along the border between Texas and Mexico for the purpose of protecting the Texans from the predatory raids of Mexicans. The number of men to be stationed there, however, seems rather too small for the efficient performance of the required services.

The rupture of the direct cable, which it will be remembered was said by the president of the company to have been caused by a malicious attempt to injure the company, is about to be repaired. The cable repairing steamer has caught up both ends of the broken cable and is waiting for a good day to splice.

All the horses which ran in the four mile race in California are well except Rutherford, who has probably injured his leg past recovery. Katie Pease is training for the two mile race to come off two weeks hence. Nothing is said of Foster's condition, hence it may be assumed that he is all right.

Forty five men, the advance guard of a proposed colony of Bostonians, have just started for Arizona with an intention of settling in Chiquito valley.

Fire at the State's Prison.

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 28.—The fire at the State's prison, though entailing serious loss to the State and to the contractors carrying on manufacturing in the building burned, seems to have been greatly exaggerated in the first accounts received as to the value of the property consumed and imminence of the danger of an outbreak. To arrive at a clear idea of the state of affairs, it is necessary to know that on entering the main gate on the east side of the quadrangle formed by the outer wall of the prison, the officers' quarters and the building for female prisoners are on the right, while on the left are ranged three buildings for the confinement of convicts, the ends facing east. To the west, and in the rear of these, and 30 feet distant, is the main workshop, a brick building three stories high on the east side and four on the west, the ground in the yard sloping gradually from east to west. To the right of this building and near the north wall, is the hospital and in the northwest corner of the enclosure is the laundry, while near the main shop in the southwest corner, is the harness shop and tannery. The main shop building contains the furniture factory, conducted by the California Furniture Manufacturing Co, the shoe shop, conducted by Porter, Blum & Slessinger of this city, contractors for prisoners, the dining room, kitchen and the quarters for the Chinese convicts, some 150 in number. It also contained the prison library of 3,000 or 4,000 volumes. The fire was first discovered bursting from the roof of this building, about a quarter to 4 P M. At this time the convicts were gathered in the yard preparing for dinner. The alarm was instantly given. At first there was great confusion and excitement. Warden Towle was at the time in San Francisco, being in attendance at court with a prisoner on a habeas corpus case. Deputy Fitzgerald at once posted guards, set the convicts at work with the facilities at hand to combat the flames and sent telegrams to Chief of Police Ellis, asking immediate assistance from the police and fire departments fearing the fire would communicate to the other buildings and clean out the whole establishment and that an outbreak would occur. In the mean time Commissary Tranor telegraphed for cooked rations, and left on the boat for the city to make arrangements. The convicts showed themselves disposed to be tractable, and worked with such good will that it was soon evident that the fire would be confined to the building in which it started. Requests for assistance from here were therefore countermanded, but before the dispatch arrived Chief Scannell of the fire department with the best engine in the city, two hose carts, a force of men and 1,200 feet of hose had already started on the ferryboat for the scene and at last advices was pouring a stream on the smoking ruins of the workshop. On receipt of the request for aid to hold the prisoners in check, Chief of Police Ellis immediately summoned about 50 regular officers, and, under charge of Capt Douglas, they embarked on the tug Neptune, in company with eighteen men of the National Guards, Captain Humphrey and fifteen men of the Union Guard, Captain Fritz, all under command of Lieut Col Woodhams. The men took supplies and blankets with them for their own use, but as the last dispatches from the prison report the fire under control and all secure, it is probable their services will not be required. Arrangements have been made for forwarding such an amount of cooked provisions as will be necessary for the use of the prisoners until such time as means can be obtained for cooking at the prison. The building burned was erected at a cost to the State of $220,000 and is entirely consumed with all its contents. N P Cole, agent of the furniture manufacturing company, estimates their loss roughly at $50,000, insured for $10,000. The losses in the shoe factory are not yet ascertained but will be heavy. The loss by the burning of the library, dining room, kitchen, Chinese dormitory, etc, will be considerable, but the first estimate of $500,000 in all is undoubtedly a gross exaggeration. Not a prisoner has escaped and no further trouble is anticipated other than the inconvenience inseparable from the result of the fire.

Condition of Foster's late Competitors.

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 28.—Rutherford's leg is badly swollen from the effects of the late four mile race. It is thought he will be lucky if he gets back into proper shape. Katie Pease is all right and will be prepared for the two mile race a fortnight hence. Golden Gate returned to Ocean View the day after the race and Hockhocking crossed the bay on his way home Saturday, both horses look in first rate [illegible].

Fires.

A fire broke out at a quarter to four o'clock this morning at the corner of [illegible] and [illegible] streets. A house and table were burned, valued at $8,000, insured for $[illegible].

Odd Fellows Savings Bank.

SAN FRANCISCO Feb [illegible].—Since [illegible] have been expressed by many parties during the morning of a raid on the Odd Fellows Savings Bank [illegible] public [illegible] Mecker's [illegible] the officers state the extraordinary [illegible] on the resources of the bank was not sufficient to cause the slightest uneasiness. April attempts have been made for deposits during the day. They have mostly been for small amounts and where apparently made in the ordinary course of business were promptly honored. In cases where the depositors showed signs of being panicky the bank required the legal notice of withdrawal. The friends of the bank are prepared to come to its relief to any desirable extent in case of a run, but it is believed none will take place.

It is rumored on apparently good authority that the new [illegible] Consolidated Virginia will soon be issued, increasing the number of shares [illegible]. It is reported that the company are only waiting to perfect their arrangements for hoisting and milling, so as to declare a dividend of three dollars on the new stock before issuing.

The Spaulding Court-Martial.

VALLEJO Cal Feb 28.—The Spaulding court martial met this forenoon, all the members being present except Commander Fitzhugh, who is on the Harmony court, which has not yet adjourned. Without organizing the Spaulding court adjourned till 11 o'clock to-morrow. By that time it is expected the order will be received from the Secretary of the Navy relieving Commander Fitzhugh. The charges and specifications have not yet been made public. Mr Lathmer Spaulding's counsel was present.

Rain and Storms.

OAKLAND Cal Feb 28.—It has rained almost incessantly since Saturday evening until about two o'clock this afternoon. All the rivers in this vicinity are running very high. The barometer is still falling and more rain is expected to-night. The crops are looking splendid in this vicinity and there is every prospect of an abundant harvest.

SAN DIEGO Feb 28.—About midnight the wind commenced blowing and increased until it blew thirty four miles an hour from the southeast. About 4 o'clock it commenced raining and continued until 9 A. M., when it partially cleared off. The rainfall amounted to .70 inches. It is cloudy with a southeast wind to-night and prospects of more rain. The rain is good for crops, assuring good grain and honey crops.

LOS ANGELES Feb 29.—It commenced raining here at 8 o'clock last evening and continued until daylight this morning, and for three or four hours it poured in torrents. The quantity fallen is .95 inches. Several cellars were flooded, among others the wine cellar of M Kellar. The mail due from the north last night has not arrived. The railroad track on the Anaheim branch of the Pacific R R was washed away at the crossing of the Los Angeles river. The San Fernando branch of the same road was also made impassable. Material for reconstruction is being sent forward and the work of track laying is vigorously prosecuted. The S P R R will soon reach the Colorado river.

Delinquent Assessments.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb 29.—The delinquent list of the second assessment of $500,000 on the stock of the Bank of California is published to-day, and shows only nine delinquents in the present list. The total amount unpaid is $26,000. The most of these are cases that cannot be reached in the ordinary way. Unless this is paid by the 15th of March, so much of this stock as is necessary will be sold by public auction on that day to cover the assessment and costs of sale. It is expected that other assessments will be necessary.

NEVADA.

Excitement about Discoveries of Cinnabar.

RENO Feb 28.—The discoveries of quicksilver and sulphur recently made near Steamboat Springs, 11 miles from Reno, have culminated in the wildest excitement. On Sunday the whole country was taken up by parties from Reno, and every claimant alleges that his location is a solid mass of cinnabar. San Francisco men who have been examining the discoveries have bought one of Lewis, Dean's and Thos Wheeler's claims for $10,000 and the money was deposited to their credit in San Francisco to-day. The same parties offered to bond the adjoining claim belonging to the said parties for $120,000, but Dean and Wheeler refused the offer. Prospects look bright for a regular quicksilver mania, as the whole section for miles west of the springs is said to be rich in cinnabar. Experts will be on hand in a few days to make a thorough investigation. That these discoveries are valuable and permanent no one pretends to deny and the future alone will tell exactly how rich and the extent of such richness.

PLUMMER FRUIT DRYER.

AS A PROOF OF WHAT I HAVE HERETOFORE stated to the people of Oregon, I give below a letter from the Plummer Fruit Drying Co. of East Portland. After the close of business of 1875, fully endorsing it after using it one entire season, and as a proof to substantiate what they say they now contemplate putting up another Dryer of the same capacity of the one they now have, which will increase their capacity to five hundred bushels of apples per day. Having now located here in Portland for the purpose of supplying the demand for Fruit Dryers in Oregon and Washington Territory, I can supply these dryers at a cost of from $1,000 to $5,000 according to capacity. Warranted to dry from 4 to 20 bushels of apples per hour at a small cost for labor and fuel. These machines being so cheap and simple in construction they cannot fail to supersede all other known machines. I would also say to the fruit growers that I have invented a Machine (and am now waiting for a patent) that will cut and spread the fruit on the trays with a very small amount of labor. I also have invented a Peach Parer that is on an entirely new principle, paring soft as well as hard, does its work well with great speed and slices and pits the fruit ready for the Dryer in the best possible manner and at a great saving in quantity of fruit.

Having become somewhat acquainted with the wants of the people I find that a cheap DRYER is what is wanted and one that will do good work and a large amount of it. I have so modified my Dryer as to meet that demand, and can now guarantee my CHEAP DRYER to do as good work as any and as large an amount of it and the price is within the reach of all.

FRUIT DRYER TESTIMONIALS.

EAST PORTLAND Jan 4th 18[illegible]

MR W S PLUMMER—Dear Sir:—As this is a time when all are much interested in Fruit Drying we think that in justice to you and for the information of the public it is but right and proper that we should give all the information that we can. Now after having operated your Dryer during this season we feel warranted in saying that for the amount of money invested we still believe as we did from the start that your Dryer is the best Dryer yet introduced into this country. The capacity of the Dryer we find to be about 8 (eight) bushels per hour. The Dried fruit we claim to be as good as any, though perhaps not as much bleached as the Alden Fruit, and we are satisfied that we can produce Dried Fruit at less expense than the Alden. The stockholders of our Company manifested their confidence in the Plummer Dryer at our meeting last Saturday by a unanimous vote to increase the capital stock $12,000 (twelve thousand dollars) for the purpose of adding one more Dryer to the present one and making other improvements [illegible]. We will further say that we believe that by an improvement made by the patentee in the [illegible] and [illegible] that there will be an increase of capacity and a saving of Fuel.

H HANSON, President
I S NEWELL, Secretary and Superintendent

EAST PORTLAND Dec 13 187[illegible]

MR PLUMMER—Dear Sir:—I have been watching both the Alden and your Fruit Dryer the past season so as to determine which was the best Machine for drying Prunes. I visited the Alden Dryer at Oregon City and examined the Fruit sorted on that Machine, and I have also examined several lots dried on your Machine at East Portland, and my opinion is that your Dryer is far the best Machine for drying Prunes. My reasons are these: Your Machine dries them without bursting or cracking, while I noticed that a great deal of the fruit dried on the Alden Machine was bursted open, and after a Prune is bursted in drying it is worthless for market as a Prune. Therefore I can recommend your Machine for drying Prunes or anything else.

Yours truly

WEDNESDAY MORNING MARCH

CITY.

THE LECTURE.—Last evening [illegible] Forest Grove delivered the fourth lecture of the course [illegible] Y. M. C. A. [illegible] present a [illegible] and appreciative audience [illegible] He had [illegible] the subject [illegible] lecture [illegible] manner [illegible] the audience with pleasure [illegible] lecture. Mr Ellis dwelt at some length [illegible] different [illegible] in every day life. Among these [illegible] many [illegible] warfare [illegible] between science and [illegible] hard times [illegible] public opinion [illegible] lecture was [illegible] logical [illegible] sufficient [illegible] humor and [illegible] sarcasm [illegible] it thoroughly enjoyable [illegible] such originality and the [illegible] and often eloquent language [illegible] Ellis threw [illegible] feeling and [illegible] his discourse [illegible] effect [illegible] have been much greater. Several [illegible] speaker's remarks were interrupted [illegible] laughter and applause. Before the lecture [illegible] at its conclusion Miss Emma Miller [illegible] and talented vocalist [illegible] Miller of Oregon City and [illegible] Academy of Music, Boston, delighted [illegible] audience with two selections rendered [illegible] and with artistic effect. The last [illegible] rendered—"The Mother's Dream"—was [illegible] much feeling and sweetness. A [illegible] vote of thanks was returned Mr [illegible] his excellent and instructive lecture [illegible] Miller for the beautiful vocal selections [illegible] Mr Walter S Pierce, the [illegible] musician, played an accompaniment [illegible] the piano with his usual skill and [illegible] fifth lecture of the course will [illegible] next Tuesday evening by Judge [illegible] who has chosen for his subject [illegible] Times in Oregon.

AN ACTIVE AGENT.—Mr John E Sheppard, it will be remembered left Portland for San Francisco as the duly appointed agent of the Board of State Immigration [illegible] here on the last steamer. During his stay in San Francisco Mr Sheppard opened an office in that city, and has [illegible] himself assiduously to the work of distributing pamphlets and circulars concerning the resources of this State and Washington Territory. By his earnest and active labors and representations hundreds no doubt [illegible] induced to come to Oregon [illegible] energetic, wide awake rustler," [illegible] fellow as is required and he can [illegible] service to the State as an immigration agent. He came up on a flying trip and [illegible] by the steamer which will sail [illegible]

THE RIOTERS.—Our correspondent at Vancouver yesterday states that [illegible] time the mail closed the trial of the [illegible] was still in progress and would not close before evening. Those [illegible] arrest and examination are the [illegible] brothers, John Dodd, William [illegible] Goodman, a half breed named [illegible] and Morril, making eight in all [illegible] Morril was discharged as [illegible] charge could be sustained against [illegible] Dolph of Portland and W [illegible] and W B Daniels appeared [illegible] J M Fletcher appeared [illegible] prosecution. Several of the young men [illegible] on bail, but the remainder were [illegible] in jail for safe-keeping.

A FALSE STATEMENT.—In the San [illegible] published at Walla Walla under [illegible] 26th ult we observe the following: "Portland Feb 25.—Western [illegible] are down between Portland and [illegible] Francisco—no account given of the great [illegible] race." But one motive could prompt [illegible] who sent the above telegram [illegible] malicious disposition to misrepresent [illegible] who will take the pains to [illegible] of the OREGONIAN will find a full [illegible] account of the great four mile [illegible] the issue of Feb 23d, the day following. Two days after that in view of [illegible] some person sits down and deliberately [illegible] what he must know to be [illegible]

EXTENSIVE WHARF IMPROVEMENT.—[illegible] most substantial and extensive [illegible] which is to be made this [illegible] be the new wharf and warehouse constructed by Capt Flanders. A large [illegible] under the contractor, Mr Sa[illegible] present employed in tearing away [illegible] partially decayed wharf preparatory [illegible] commencing the work of rebuilding [illegible] wharf and warehouse, about 200 feet long [illegible] feet wide will be constructed [illegible] intention to build the structure entirely [illegible] the ground up and consequently [illegible] will be driven. The work [illegible] pushed forward, and the new improvement [illegible] be finished early in the summer.

MUNITIONS OF WAR.—On the steamer [illegible] arrived a large number of metal [illegible] and also two gun carriages from [illegible] at Alcatraz. These munitions are [illegible] to Col Whipple, Fort Walla Walla [illegible] be forwarded to their destination [illegible] morning. Referring to the amicable [illegible] of the recently threatened Indian [illegible] in Wallowa valley it can be [illegible] that "grim visaged war has smoothed [illegible] wrinkled front," but Uncle Samuel [illegible] the wisdom of the policy "in times [illegible] prepare for war" and has acted accordingly.

A NEW STEAMER.—The cabin of [illegible] steamer Tenino, the hull of which [illegible] at Celilo, has been transferred to [illegible] steamer that is now being constructed [illegible] Monday evening a large number of [illegible] framed braces were brought down to [illegible] the Bonita. These braces were [illegible] time ago and were used in [illegible] the cabin from the old to the new boat [illegible] machinery—boilers, engines, etc.—[illegible] taken out of the old hull and [illegible] new boat. This new craft will [illegible] ready to make her maiden trip.

CRIME CALENDAR.—Seventy four arrests [illegible] made by the police force during the month of February, classified as [illegible] Drunk and disorderly 19, drunk [illegible] disorderly conduct 10, assault and battery [illegible] larceny, 4, using obscene language 4 [illegible] insane 2, using abusive language [illegible] selling liquor to prisoners 1, butchering [illegible] city limits 1, burglary 1, running [illegible] without license 1, peddling without [illegible] threatening to kill 1, assault with [illegible] to commit rape 1, contempt of court [illegible]

OREGON BIBLE SOCIETY.—The friends [illegible] cause are requested to not forget the [illegible] meeting of the Oregon Bible Society [illegible] Baptist Church to-day, March 1 [illegible] o'clock A. M. Sermon by Rev. M[illegible] of Salem, after which business [illegible] reports from depositary, treasurer [illegible] executive committee and election of officers [illegible] coming year. Evening meeting [illegible] 7 o'clock at which addresses will be [illegible] Revs Lindsley [illegible] Jones of Salem.

BODY RECOVERED.—Monday the body [illegible] Chinaman [illegible] it will be remembered [illegible] murderous assault on Mrs [illegible] Brookfield several months ago [illegible] hotly pursued by the [illegible] band ran into the [illegible] drowned [illegible] was recovered [illegible] remains were [illegible]

AN ACTIVE AGENT —Mr John E Sheppard who, it will be remembered, left Portland last fall for San Francisco as the duly authorized agent of the Board of State Immigration returned here on the last steamer During his sojourn in San Francisco Mr Sheppard has opened an office in that city and has applied himself assiduously to the work of distributing pamphlets and circulars concerning the resources of this State and Washington Territory By his earnest and active labors and personal representations hundreds no doubt have been induced to come to Oregon "Jack" is an energetic, wide-awake "rustler" Just such a fellow as is required, and he can render great service to the State as an immigration agent. He came up on a flying trip and will return by the steamer which will sail this evening

THE RIOTERS —Our correspondent writing from Vancouver yesterday, states that up to the time the mail closed the trial of the young rioters was still in progress, and would probably not close before evening Those reported under arrest and examination are the two Lyons brothers, John Dodd, William Dodd Geo Goodman, a half breed named Charlie Price, and Morril, making eight in all Subsequently Morril was discharged, as no definite charge could be sustained against him J N Dolph of Portland, and W. C. Cradlebaugh and W. B. Daniels appeared for the defense J M Fletcher appeared for the prosecution. Several of the young men were released on bail, but the remainder were confined in jail for safe-keeping

A FALSE STATEMENT —In the semi-weekly Spirit published at Walla Walla under date of the 25th ult we observe the following dispatch Portland Feb 23 —Western Union lines are down between Portland and San Francisco—no account given of the great four mile race" But one motive could prompt the person who sent the above telegram, and that a malicious disposition to misrepresent Any person who will take the pains to inspect the files of the OREGONIAN will find a full telegraphic account of the "great four mile race in the issue of Feb. 23d, the day following the race. Two days after that, in view of all the facts, some person sits down and deliberately transmits what he must know to be a false hood

EXTENSIVE WHARF IMPROVEMENT —One of the most substantial and extensive improvements which is to be made this season will be the new wharf and warehouse constructed by Capt. Flanders A large force of men under the contractor Mr Smith are at present employed in tearing away the old and partially decayed wharf preparatory to commencing the work of rebuilding A new wharf and warehouse, about 200 feet long and 100 feet wide will be constructed It is the intention to build the structure entirely new from the ground up, and consequently new piles will be driven, The work will be crowded forward, and the new improvement will be finished early in the summer

MUNITIONS OF WAR —On the steamer Oneonta arrived a large number of metallic cartridges and also two gun carriages from the arsenal at Alcatraz These munitions are directed to Col. Whipple, Fort Walla Walla and will be forwarded to their destination this morning Referring to the amicable adjustment of the recently threatened Indian difficulties in Wallowa valley, it can be truthfully said that "grim visaged war has smoothed his wrinkled front," but Uncle Samuel recognizes the wisdom of the policy "in times of peace prepare for war," and has acted accordingly

British House of Commons.

LONDON Feb 28 —In the House of Commons to night Goschen drew attention to the circumstances connected with the destruction of the ironclad Vanguard He censured the admiralty for its action in reversing the finding of the court martial and moved for a minute showing of the steps taken by the admiralty in reference to the Vanguard

Hunt first lord of the admiralty defended the conduct complained of He said his naval colleagues agreed unanimously with him in dissenting from the conclusions of the court martial as to the persons responsible for the loss of the ship He recounted the circumstances of the collision in order to prove the correctness of this view

Disraeli suggested that a definite motion on the subject could be submitted on a future occasion

Goschen's motion was then agreed to

The English Representative Dismissed from the Suez Canal Directory.

LONDON Feb 28 —The Times announces that M Ferdinand de Lesseps and his coadjutors of the Suez Canal Co have abruptly dismissed Sir David Lange from his position as representative of English interests in the Canal Company's directorate This step is taken in consequence of letters written under obviously patriotic influences to Earl Granville in 1871 having been inadvertently published among the Parliament papers relative to the canal purchase

KELLO

THE [illegible]

BY [illegible] ALLIE [illegible]

[The following very interesting poem was read by the author in the State Temperance Alliance on the 17th in [illegible] when a resolution was passed requesting him to allow it to be published in the OREGONIAN.]

'Twas on a lagoon in Klamath land
Brave Kello lived with all his band
In quiet [illegible]
And wrong and quarrel seldom knew

Their native [illegible]
And nature [illegible] supplied
[illegible]
Had made [illegible]
Where streams [illegible]
From mountains white with lasting snow
And lakes with [illegible]
On plains [illegible]

Upon the rim of this bright land
Where [illegible] peaks rise bold and grand
Where pine and hemlock [illegible]
'Mid giant walls of old gray stone
A [illegible]
[illegible] and cliff and sky
A land of wondrous sight and sound
'Twixt earth and heaven, the half way ground

When night has draped the mountains grand
Come pilgrims from a spirit land
And on the lake a voice is heard
Like plaintive cry of [illegible] bird
And through the air's peculiar hush
Broad wings of spirit waves and rush
And phantom ships with great white sail
Drift here and there in moonlight pale
'Mid rippling waves that lave the wall
Come phantom bathers weird and tall,
And curious demons sport and swim
Beneath the moonlight pale and dim

Kello, the chief of all this land,
His subjects ruled with iron hand,
And yet his law was seldom wrong,
For Kello's heart was good and strong;
If other red men came for spoil,
Then Kello rose to guard the soil—
With ax of stone and yew tree bow
Dread vengeance took upon the foe.

The trophies of each bloody raid
Against the Piute nomads made,
Were in a spacious hall displayed,
To show how fiercely debts were paid
And Kello's power was felt and known
Beyond the Modoc walls of stone,
And Mo-at-was, full many a score,
Were brought, as slaves to Klamath's shore
Above his wigwam's tule door
There hung a priceless gem of yore—
Hung a scalp his father wore
Once carmined with a Shasta's gore
An elk-skin robe, now old and torn
Erst by a chief of Rogue River worn,
With beads and shells and claws embossed,
Showed how that chieftain's power was lost.

It had been long since foemen came,
On Klamath lit a signal flame,
And watched along the unbushed way
As fierce as panthers for their prey
The need was past the bow to seize
And move like shadows 'mong the trees,
With stealthy tread and battle cry
When foemen, pierced with arrows, die
So Kello doffed his elk-skin shield
No more to meet on sanguine field
The lurking foe, with painted face,
And joined his warriors in the chase

No hunter of the green Cascades
So tireless was 'mid forest shades,
No hunter with the sinewed bow
Could half his skill or courage show

On Klamath's beach, 'mid tasseled cane,
Busily gathering wo-cus grain,
Lo-e-na oft would wait for him
Until the day was growing dim.
Oft glancing o'er the waters blue
For glimpse of well-known pine canoe,
And listening for the stroke of oar
That brought her lover to the shore.
Then would she light the evening flame
And broil for him the savory game,
And then his sumptuous couch prepare
Of skins of wolf and grizzly bear.

To him his gentle love was fair,
With star-like eye and raven hair,
Faithful as fair and fond as true,
Like vine and oak, entwined they grew.

To mountains high oft Kello went,
And many a night in labor spent
Clambering the dizzy heights along,
Piling rocks with a weird-wild song,
'Till a fast deep sleep, like death, would come
When on some lofty mountain's dome.
And there, in dreams, on the mountain's rim
Bil-dell-ue-lock-e talked with him,
And gave him power to govern well,
And skill to hunt o'er crag and fell—
Skill to predict sunshine and rain,
To cure disease and banish pain.
And thus, beside his eagle crest
And chieftain's badge upon his breast,
A doctor's buckskin robe he wore,
All decked with sacred emblems o'er.

Sharp hoofs of fawn, an eagle's beak,
A crimson circlet on each cheek,
With weasels' skins and claws of bear,
A blue-tailed lizard in his hair,
A buckskin belt of bead-work rare,
A rival chieftain's ebon hair,
An arrow quiver, skin of coon,
And feathers from the sacred loon.

His iron limbs, in leggings bound,
With beads and shells were garnished round,
His [illegible], of mule-deer's hide,
Were round the ankle loosely tied,
Suspended from his belt he wore
A smoking pouch all beaded o'er.
Cornelian points, on arrows long,
Of iron-wood, so firm and strong,
A slender bow, of rare design,
Sinewed from a mule-deer's spine,
In coon-skin quiver found their place
When Kello wished to join the chase

Kello was peerless. Long he bore
Unrivalled sway on Klamath's shore
No matter where the chieftain led
The warriors heard what Kello said.

One day while all was calm and still,
As sun went down o'er Sheek-loss hill,
And airy tu-le huts were seen
Among the trees of evergreen
That line the shores of Ko-was-ta,
A pale-faced stranger came that way,
A straggler from a trapper's band
Just on the verge of Klamath land,
Who, following hard a wounded deer,
Had lost his way and wandered here—
Worn and hungry, asked to remain—
Asked rest and food—asked not in vain,
For Kello knew, by signs he made,
Why to his hut the pale-face strayed

Ere this but few of Saxon race
Had ever looked in Kello's face—
No drop of blood on either hand
Had yet been shed in Klamath land

"Here let him rest. When he closes his eye
It shall open no more," said young Ko-nt-ki
"His light shall go out, mine brighter shall burn
When I to my wigwam this night shall return,
His scalp to my people this night shall I show,
And another blood-mark I will make on my bow."
"Be silent," said Kello "Touch not a hair,
Or your own raven locks this night I shall wear
To-morrow I'll lead him o'er the mountain's high rim—
He's a stranger and lost I'm a brother to him"

So into his lodge he led the pale face,
By his own side gave the stranger a place
Then Lo-e-na brought in an ancient stone vase
Fish from the lake and spoils of the chase,
Camas so juicy, seed from the plain,
A little bark dish of rich wo-cus grain,
Sweeter wild fruits than he ever had known
And rich oily nuts from a sugar-pine cone
"Enough," said the stranger, as these faded away,
"I've not feasted so well for many a day"
Skins of beaver and swan Lo-e-na then spread
And made for the stranger a soft downy bed

And when in the morn on high tasseled cane,
The sun-light was brilliant and golden again,
The stranger rose up from his couch on the ground
Rejoicing in strength and vigor new found
Then, when the meal of the morning was o'er,
The trapper went forth with Chief Kello before,
And for hours toiled on through pumice and sand,
'Till they came near the borders of Oux-ca-ni land,
And there 'mid the pines on an evergreen hill
They looked on a plain where a silvery rill
Went glancing in sunshine [illegible]
And the trapper well knew the land[illegible] again

"Now, Kello, old warrior," said the happy pale face,
"I'm forever a friend to your down-trodden race
And before you depart we'll now let me [illegible]
I guess we'll together take a jolly old drink
So saying, he lifted a flask from his side
And down his throat glided a red liquid [illegible]
"Now, Kello, you drink [illegible] harm
Make firmer your heart [illegible] stronger your arm
And take with you the flask [illegible]
And give to your braves [illegible] shore
Good bye" said the pale face [illegible] view
In an emerald forest [illegible]

Now Kello thought [illegible] way

The monetary situation is not essentially changed though the return of collection day demonstrates the fact quite clearly that the attempt to conform strictly to the silver discount plan cannot be carried out successfully in this community as yet and the majority of collectors expressed their inability to secure much of an improvement on the former system of getting what gold they can and accepting silver when it only could be given. There was little or no attention paid to the 5 limit by the most, but a few tried to conform to the new order meeting however with less encouragement than was expected though no one seriously anticipated that the plan could be put in full operation at once.

The news from San Francisco by mail is to the effect that money—gold coin and gold notes—is plentiful for all contingencies and although the crops of every kind promise to be far more abundant than ever requiring a much greater amount of funds to harvest, move and market them there is no reason to apprehend anything like a scarcity but quite the reverse. One and 1¼ per cent per month is the discount required at commercial banks and the savings and loan institutions are lending at 9@12 per cent per year.

The Commercial Herald of the 24th says "If any persons were insane enough to believe that there is any scarcity of loose cash in this community, his conversion to a sounder opinion would have been wrought by visiting the race track on Tuesday or the centennial ball in the evening of the same day."

Eastern mail dates are up to the 16th and indicate that everything is moving along in a quiet state with a sound foundation, and with the prospect when the revival does come, it will be in a healthy and substantial way. There is no effort to force trade, the disposition being rather to guide it through the channels in which it naturally belongs. Prices of most commodities are now believed to be at the bottom and an early reaction is looked for by those to whom has been accorded the privilege of prophesying.

From Europe, and especially from England, comes word of an abundant accumulation of idle capital, and a great dullness both in manufacturing and trade circles. The London Times suggests that now would be a good time to float a portion of the four per cent bonds of the United States authorized by the act of 1871. It states that at least £100,000,000 might be taken in that city before the plethora in the money market would be relieved.

The shipment of treasure from New York for the week ending on the 10th instant, amounted to $403 500. Of this amount, $100,000 was in Spanish doubloons for Havana. The remainder was in fine silver for Europe. The shipment for the six weeks ending on the above date was $2,757,000, against $11 633 000 for the same time last year, and $4 305 000 for the same time in 1874. The demand last week was much larger and upwards of $2 000 000 is reported as having gone forward, part of it for account of the purchase of United States bonds, which just now are relatively cheaper in London than in New York.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Oriflamme will sail for San Francisco at 6 P M Wednesday March 1st.

The British ship Oriflamme of the grain fleet is at Albina. She will be loaded by Corbitt & Macleay who have her cargo ready and will give her good dispatch.

Deep water tonnage is reported very scarce at San Francisco yet notwithstanding, this scarcity of available A 1 ships freights continue to rule both low and nominal say £2s. 5s for wood and iron respectively. Some ship owners prefer to load their own vessels rather than accept current low rates of freight.

The Br ship Doune Castle is in the river. She comes in ballast to load wheat at this port for England.

POND'S EXTRACT

"Hear, for I will speak of excellent things."

POND'S EXTRACT The great Vegetable Pain Destroyer. Has been in use over thirty years, and for cleanliness and prompt curative virtues cannot be excelled.

CHILDREN. No family can afford to be without Pond's Extract. Accidents, Bruises, Contusions, Cuts, Sprains, are relieved almost instantly by external application. Promptly relieves pains of Burns, Scalds, Excoriations, Chafings, Old Sores, Boils, Felons, Corns, etc. Arrests inflammation, reduces swellings, stops bleeding, removes discoloration and heals rapidly.

FEMALE WEAKNESSES. It always relieves pain in the back and loins, fullness and pressing pain in the head, nausea, vertigo.

IN LEUCORRHŒA it has no equal. All kinds of ulcerations to which ladies are subject are promptly cured. Fuller details in book accompanying each bottle.

PILES—blind or bleeding—meet prompt relief and ready cure. No case, however chronic or obstinate, can long resist its regular use.

VARICOSE VEINS. It is the only sure cure.

KIDNEY DISEASES. It has no equal for permanent cure.

BLEEDING from any cause. For this it is a specific. It has saved hundreds of lives when all other remedies failed to arrest bleeding from nose, stomach, lungs, and elsewhere.

TOOTHACHE, Earache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism are all alike relieved, and often permanently cured.

PHYSICIANS of all schools who are acquainted with Pond's Extract of Witch Hazel recommend it in their practice. We have letters of commendation from hundreds of Physicians, many of whom order it for use in their own practice. In addition to the foregoing, they order its use for Swellings of all kinds, Quinsy, Sore Throat, Inflamed Tonsils, simple and chronic Diarrhœa, Catarrh (for which it is a specific), Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Stings of Insects, Musquitoes, etc., Chapped Hands, Face, and indeed all manner of skin diseases.

TOILET USE. Removes Soreness, Roughness and Smarting; heals Cuts, Eruptions and Pimples. It revives, invigorates and refreshes, while wonderfully improving the Complexion.

TO FARMERS—Pond's Extract. No Stock Breeder, no Livery Man can afford to be without it. It is used by all the leading Livery Stables, Street Railroads and first Horsemen in New York City. It has no equal for Sprains, Harness or Saddle Chafings, Stiffness, Scratches, Swellings, Cuts, Lacerations, Bleedings, Pneumonia, Colic, Diarrhœa, Chills, Colds, &c. Its range of action is wide, and the relief it affords is so prompt that it is invaluable in every Farm-yard as well as in every Farm-house. Let it be tried once, and you will never be without it.

CAUTION! Pond's Extract has been imitated. The genuine article has the words Pond's Extract blown in each bottle. It is prepared by the only persons living who ever knew how to prepare it properly. Refuse all other preparations of Witch Hazel. This is the only article used by Physicians, and in the hospitals of this country and Europe.

HISTORY and Uses of Pond's Extract, in pamphlet form, sent free on application to POND'S EXTRACT COMPANY, 98 Maiden Lane, New York.

Ordinance No 1731

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING A DEVIATION from the plan for improving that part of Pine street lying between Fourth street and the Willamette river by putting in a sewer.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows

Section 1. [illegible] the Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized to deviate from and modify the contract heretofore entered into for laying a pipe sewer in Pine street under the provisions of Ordinance No 1649 entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the time and manner of improving that part of Pine street lying between Fourth street and the Willamette river by putting in a sewer at the expense of the property benefited" so as to provide for constructing said sewer from the west line of Second street to the west line of Fourth street of terra cotta pipe twelve inches in diameter instead of nine inches as by said ordinance provided so as to admit of an extension of said sewer to the west line of Sixth street.

Section [illegible] said Committee are hereby authorized to make such regulations as to the manner of doing said work and the time of completion as they may deem to be for the best interests of all concerned.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

[illegible] Republican State Convent[illegible]

[illegible] Feb 29 Mr Robinson appeared [illegible] the convention and declared in favor of [illegible] as he understood the committee would [illegible] ing judicial some of its leading po[illegible] platform was adopted. The Re[illegible] party in convention, reaffirms its devotion [illegible] and its continued faith in [illegible] truths declared by the fathers. It sp[illegible] retrenchment and reform and for speedy re[illegible] extravagance to simplicity for untiring [illegible] punishment of fraud and crime wher[illegible] for the preservation inviolate of the p[illegible] of the war and for a hearty welcome [illegible] of the whole country to our com[illegible] and blessings. It honors the unpr[illegible] ability of Secretary Bristow and the whole [illegible] of Secretary Jewell in their endeavo[illegible] the public purse and to punish public c[illegible] gives a hearty response to the declar[illegible] President—"Let no guilty man escape." [illegible] upon the Democratic majority of the [illegible] Congress selections for office which a[illegible] the national honor, and displacem[illegible] marked with ingratitude; with [illegible] in days of national extremity the [illegible] republic to party success, with appl[illegible] the floor of the House sentiments w[illegible] open defiance of the nation and insulti[illegible] with halting upon the great fina[illegible] at a time when the industri[illegible] are prostrate. We declare tha[illegible] of national legislation to the Demo[illegible] a signal failure, and believe the Rep[illegible] is the best hope of the country in [illegible] the preserver of its honor in war. W[illegible] welfare of the country demands tha[illegible] legislation be passed to carry the res[illegible] into effect at the time specified, eithe[illegible] greenbacks into long bonds, at the lo[illegible] interest, or by using any avail[illegible] of pay, and to cancel them. We belie[illegible] written law of the land, which declar[illegible] for the Chief Magistrate to hold offic[illegible] terms, and we accept the declaratio[illegible] Grant, in harmony with this law, a[illegible] claim upon our admiration and grati[illegible] [illegible] was offered presenting to the [illegible] Republican Convention the name of [illegible] as a candidate for President, but [illegible] in which it was held best to leav[illegible] of presenting any name from the co[illegible] either place on the national ticket t[illegible] elected, the resolution was tabled. [illegible] following delegates at large, were appo[illegible] National Convention to convene at C[illegible] A. Hawley, Stephen W. Kellogg, J[illegible] and John T. Rockwell.
